

HE COMMITS SUICIDE

Arnon Wickham Hangs Himself in an Outhouse.

HEALTH POOR FOR YEARS

Was Visiting an Uncle, Near Oatville, Kansas.

Last night news reached the city of the suicide of Arnon Wickham on the farm of Jim Corry, three miles southeast of Oatville.

Wickham was found at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon suspended from a rafter in an outhouse. He had used three strands of heavy twine for the purpose of taking his life, fastening one end to the rafter and making a noose at the other, slipped it over his head and jumped off the seat in the place where the act was committed. The cord cut very deeply in the flesh on one side of the neck.

When Wickham was found by Jim Corry, whom Wickham was visiting at the time he committed the deed, he was yet living, but he died a short time after being cut down. The suicide has been an invalid for two or three years and at times he has not been in his right mind.

He came from the eastern part of the state about three weeks ago to visit with friends and a brother, who lives close to where Wickham killed himself yesterday. When an Eagle reporter arrived last night at the home of Jim Corry, where the suicide was found, the following particulars were learned:

Wickham had been visiting in the neighborhood about three weeks, staying most of the time at Jim Corry's, his uncle, who said that Wickham had been around the house most of the day.

I had been feeling rather despondent, talking of suicide and dying and wondering where his soul would go when he died. Little or nothing was thought of it at the time, until about 1 o'clock Wickham was found to be missing. A hurried search was made and he was found hanging by a few strands of cord from a rafter in an outhouse on his uncle's farm. When the body was cut down there was some evidence of life but strangulation had done its work and the man died a few minutes after being cut down. The house word was sent here to Sheriff Simmons, who found the corner sick at home and unable to go to the scene of the suicide and after consulting with Judge Glenn, the old judge volunteered to make the trip of over 14 miles there and back with Sheriff Simmons the two left at 8 o'clock and did not return until 11 1/2 p.m.

The judge summoned a jury together and heard what facts there were to be told and the jury brought in a verdict that Wickham came to his death by strangulation caused by an act committed by himself.

The deceased has a brother who lives close by the farm where Wickham took his life.

CHICKEN THIEVES CAUGHT

Ed Dean and Thack Hebron Were Armed With Revolvers.

Yesterday morning when Charles Todd, driver of street car, went to the barn to hitch up, he was attracted to the rear end of the car-chassis by a noise. Upon investigation he found a small wagon containing a lot of chickens, which had evidently been hidden there. The wagon had been prepared for this use by building a box over the wagon box. Charles immediately notified Policeman Munter, who went to the barn and waited for the owners of the outfit. They came about 8 o'clock in the morning and the two boys about 15 or 16 years old. Their names are Ed Dean and Thack Hebron. They were arrested and locked in jail, while the officers traced the wagon-tracks to the home of Mrs. Karbell, who lives across the Arkansas river on Sixth street. She found that she had lost about twenty chickens and identified the boys as her property.

When arrested both boys had loaded revolvers in their pockets.

The boys were arraigned before Judge Dean yesterday afternoon and pleaded guilty. They were fined $10 and costs each and given thirty days in the county jail.—Arkansas City Traveler.

JUDGE GLENN RESPONDS

He Makes Long Drive in Country to He Make Long Drive in Country to

News was brought to the city last night that a farmer living seven miles southwest of the city had committed suicide. Sheriff Simmons notified the coroner who was confined to his bed with an attack of the grip and then went to the office of Judge Glenn whom he told the story. Judge Glenn who is past 30 years of age, volunteered to act and remarked that it was a little cold for him to take a 14-mile ride but as he had never failed to respond when duty called him, he would go and act as coroner. At 10 o'clock last night the judge had not returned and Sheriff Simmons telegraphed the Eagle of that he was of the opinion that Judge Glenn was as good as one of the many younger men when it comes to going to the front and staying with his professional duties.

ODDITIES OF POISONING.

Some May Eat with Impunity Certain Foods While Others Bank Poisons to Others.

The constitutional differences and peculiarities which exist among individuals should always be carefully watched and considered. One person can handle poison with impunity while another is poisoned if only in the vicinity of the vine and without contact. Some members of a family residing in a malarial district will suffer regularly with chills and fever, while other members will not be at all affected.

Food that is actually poisonous to some persons, will not act so on others. One person may eat all kinds of green fruit and vegetables with impunity, while another person can do so only at the risk of life. Certain kinds of fish are actually poisonous to some people and perfectly wholesome to others.

It is this peculiar condition of the system which constitutes the danger point in the individual case and should be prudently observed by each one for himself. Intestinal derangements frequently arise from food that is actually poisonous to some people and aggravated by certain kinds of food. Thus a person afflicted with kidney or liver troubles should not eat very white bread since the extreme whiteness is often produced by the use of alum with an inferior article of flour, and as alum is known to be poisonous in its effects on a sound constitution, this is why alum baking powder is never used by people of judgment and discretion.

More of earthly happiness depends upon what we eat than many people realize and it is for this reason that the different states are one by one passing pure-food laws.

DOLD ADDS NEW TEAM

Pair of Heavy Draft Horses Purchased Yesterday.

Yesterday the Job-Build Packing company, placed in service a fine new heavy team of well bred horses for the local and freight delivery business. For several months the jobbing and express business of the local house has been steadily growing until recently the proportions reached have demanded added conveniences for handling it. All day long and clear into the night each day, and one big delivery every Sunday, there has been a constant line of the big wagons heavily loaded with boxes and crates produced for the express offices. Very frequently the company have found themselves obliged to call in the express company to drive wagons to assist in getting out the daily accumulated orders. This now has become a regular thing, and it was found necessary to purchase a new team of heavy draft horses, and add another wagon crew to the already well filled daily procession down Lawrence avenue. The local management was always alive to every possible improvement to add to the facilities for getting out promptly all received orders. Fred Dold believes in having his horses as well as his men, and the heavy call upon the regular wagon crews of late meant late hours for feeding and the great tax, and the country has been secured for a new delivery team. Yesterday, after careful selection, a splendid pair of iron grays was purchased from Mr. J. T. Brown, living a few miles out of the city. They show up 2500 pounds in weight, a very heavy team, well bred and trained, and cost $250. This new acquisition will be placed at once in the jobbing trade division, and will be known as "No. 3" in the stable forces. They are a handsome pair and seem to enjoy the admiration they have called forth from all the parking house force as well as those from the city who have viewed them.

NEED BOARD OF TRADE

Gives His Views Concerning Railway Rates.

Considerable talk has been going on rounds for nearly a week or perhaps longer among many of the business men of the city and all pertaining to the health of condition now existing in business and financial circles in Wichita. Other good reasons being given by various ones whom allude to the fact that the city has been struck with a broadside of prosperity that has come through the natural consequences of excellent local and state conditions, besides that of the general prosperity of the country at large.

Some of the bankers and leading firms in the wholesale and retail lines are readily testifying that their trade has increased during the past 12 months and that prospects are very bright for another year. Among the many who have expressed themselves as having great faith in the future of the city is George H. Foults, who recently came to Wichita from Wellington, Kas., and engaged in business, opening offices in the Bittling block as a loan and insurance broker, said to an Eagle reporter yesterday in an interview that he believed the time had arrived when an organized effort should be made by the business men of Wichita to bring about the consummation of a plan looking toward the reviving of the old board of trade for the united purpose of taking up and successfully handling the commercial interests of the city.

He said: "There are many enterprises that would be of great benefit to this city and naturally be of vital importance to the business interests of Southern Kansas and Oklahoma, were they induced to come here by the united effort of the men that now constitutes the business backbone of the city. For instance, this idea prevails in my mind that should appeal to the conservative thought of every merchant doing business in this city. In order to make Wichita what she is destined to become in time, should not lag now, for the want of the business men in retaining the established prestige that Wichita has been so noted for in the past and to work with the object in view to make this city the commercial center of the state and also as an undoubted wholesale and retail jobbing center. There should be every effort made to bring in all lines of manufacturing and merchandise that are of common and practical use for the people throughout the section of the country that is attributable to Wichita and surrounding country. I have often thought it and talked it, when reviewing the prospective future of this city as to whether all business men have ever fully realized the important influence of the fact that Wichita today is one of the greatest railroad centers in Kansas and I will go further and say, is destined to remain as such, owing to the existing circumstance that it is now an impossibility to predict any good reason why it should ever again go backward. I heard it said once my coming here to live and even during my long residence in Wellington, that the business men of Wichita claimed that the railroads were always discriminating against this city. I believe this to be a somewhat ancient and exaggerated idea for the reason that whether all business men have ever fully realized the important influence of the fact that railroads are often blamed for matters that they are not wholly to blame for. For instance, the making of rates; that matter is arranged by the southwestern freight association and in arranging destination points, the rates are fixed from a basis point to several destination points of nearly equal distance and if it so happens that a city like Wichita should be located between the points designated, it cannot be called in the true meaning of the word, discrimination. But, here is where the necessity arises for the united effort of representative firms and business men to organize into a board of trade or an organization of some kind for the exact purpose of bringing to the city many new business concerns and in view of increased tonnage brought about by extensive mercantile and manufacturing additional tonnage to what we have at the present time must be recognized by the railroad freight associations and will consequently bring the desired advantage that usually follows the importance of settling the question of destination or hauling freight rates. Instead of putting on gloves with them, let us help our own interests first and begin right, organize a board of trade, like other cities and bring industries here, not on that $100,000 boom style, but in a legitimate business like manner, with a little more attention to what it does not harm, a little attention is sometimes better and when the matter is finally arranged, then all stand shoulder to shoulder and give one push and land every chance we can for Wichita. The idea prevailing about railroads, their early building and their getting bonds from counties, cities and towns, induced railway construction companies to build many terminal facilities which Wichita people have always looked upon as detrimental to her interests, but this must not be lost sight of that in time all of the surrounding so called terminal locations has brought about prosperous railway towns in close proximity to this city which has always been the center from which now there are different railway lines leaving here in every direction and when in time must be of the greatest help from the fact that Wichita, with a large number of wholesale and jobbing houses

WANTED TO BE LOCKED UP

Mrs. Sanders Walks in Sheriff's Office at Winfield.

Saturday afternoon a woman walked into the sheriff's office at Winfield and asked to be locked up. She claimed she had murdered someone, but could not be induced to say who it was. She said her name was Mrs. Sanders and that she lived twenty miles southeast of Winfield.

She registered at a hotel, however, from Topeka. While she was in the office she said her son had been hanged in Texas about three weeks ago, but would not tell just where or why he was hanged. She seemed to think that it was through some fault of hers that he came to his death. She was undoubtedly crazy, for she said her brain was burning up and that as soon as it was all burned up she would be all right. The uppermost thought in her mind was that she had killed someone and that she should be locked up for the crime.

HE WAS REPRIEVED.

Mr. Harley Feels Very Grateful That He Was Saved When on the Brink of the Grave.

In France, a man sentenced to death is not told in advance on what day he is to die. The first information he gets is from the officers who prepare him for the guillotine. Between sentence and execution the prisoner's life is full of terror, for any footfall outside his cell may herald the messenger of death.

So free and honest men suffer agonies of imagination when they learn that they have diseased kidneys. They may live for years. They may die before another sunset. Kidney trouble is more deadly than consumption if neglected or improperly treated. It is a great mercy that one sure remedy exists.

Herbert Harley, dealer in shoes at Twentieth and Pine streets, Philadelphia.

"I suffered for years with chronic kidney trouble and tried many remedies and doctors. About a year ago I had an extremely serious attack. I could not attend to business and my family was much alarmed. My back was so lame I could not stand erect. I had high fever and night sweats, and the pain in my back made it impossible to secure a good night's rest.

"The doctor said I had too much acid in my blood, which caused neuralgic conditions. It makes a man pretty blue to be always ailing, and one who has a store finds sickness an expensive luxury.

"One day my daughter brought me a well-known remedy and urged me to take it. A friend had recommended it so highly she was sure it would do me good. I didn't have much confidence in it, for I had tried so many things that I had little faith left in anything. Its action, however, was a pleasant surprise. It seemed to take right hold and strengthen the bladder and kidneys, and made me feel better before the end of the week. It just braced me like a tonic, and I feel I owe my life to Warner's Safe Cure, which was the remedy I used."

The doctor was right. Mr. Harley's blood was charged with uric acid, a malignant poison. When the kidneys are sound they draw it from the blood. When they are unsound the acid remains, to shatter the nerves, to weaken the heart and to dull the brain. It is needless, and, to many readers, it would be painful, to tell in detail the terrible progress of kidney disease.

Warner's Safe Cure, which drives them out of the body, is within the reach of all.

located, through a little effort in our own behalf will make one great, big city here and in this, the question so much talked at present, real estate, will take care of its own and values will go with it arm in arm.

"Now, I have no single interest in what I have just said. Mine are with the people of Wichita, neither have I any personal designs for or against movements that may now be organized for the business advancement of the city, but I have a great feeling of pride in the growing of a city which I am investing some money in and mostly for eastern capitalists who are depending on my judgment largely and I feel sure that there is no greater opportunity than presents itself right here under our own noses today."
